CITY COUNCIL APPOINTS MILLER NEW SANITARY ENGINEER

The CORE

Because she must attend school regularly and not go to dances and parties on week day nights, Emily Rockwood, 15-year-old, of Sioux City, Ia., swallowed a deadly poison, but hopes were entertained today that she will recover.

Despite the flood of pacifist propaganda pouring into congress, President Coolidge was yesterday anxious for the adoption of the $740,000,000 naval program.

Church organizations, Quakers and allied foes of an adequate navy have also turned their barrage of propaganda upon the White House.

When Dr. Charles Jefferson, graduate of Ohio Wesleyan University here, now pastor of Broadway Congregational Tabernacle, New York City, was offered a $2,000 raise in salary, he refused to accept it. He said he was content with his present salary.

Burgomasters, city managers and mayors, councilors, commissioners and aldermen will iron out their civic troubles at the Fourth International Congress of cities to be held in Seville, Spain, October 5th, to 9th, this year. Thirteen thousand cities will be represented.

Despite his total blindness, Nelson Binkley, of Delphos, Ohio, was sentenced to a term in the state penitentiary for a term of from one to five years when he was found guilty of a third offense for liquor law violations.

Isadore Goldberg, said by police to have a record as a gunman and alcohol runner, was shot probably fatally while standing in front of a west side garage in Chicago yesterday by some unknown assailants in an automobile. Physicians at the hospital to which he was taken held out slight hope for his recovery.

ANGLIM SPEAKS TO CREDIT MEN

Clifford Anglim, secretary of the Richmond Merchants Association, was the principal speaker of the meeting of Northern Solano Credit Association, held in Suisun, Solano county, Monday night.

His subject was on the general theme of credit and he informed the meeting "that credit business to the amount of $6,500,000,000 was transacted by the merchants of the United States last year.

"FOX" CALM AS SENTENCE TO HANG IS READ

(By Universal Service)
LOS ANGELES, Feb. 14.—William Edward Hickman today heard the words that condemned him to be hanged on April 27 for the murder of 12-year-old Marion Parker.

The 20-year-old youth took his sentence with the same calmness that he exhibited during his trial. He seemed to sway a little as he stood before Judge J. J. Trabucco, but that was all.

Hickman also was given an indeterminate sentence for the crime of kidnapping the girl. This is regarded as equivalent to a life sentence.

DEATH PENALTY ASSURED
When the jury found Hickman to be sane at the time of the Parker crime, it developed upon Judge Trabucco to determine the degree of guilt. It was regarded as certain that the court would pronounce the death penalty. Nothing else was expected by the defendant himself.

Alfred Hickman of Kansas City, brother of the defendant, was the only relative present when the kidnaper, slayer and mutilator of the Parker girl heard his doom.

CAREFULLY GROOMED
Hickman, carefully groomed as always, entered the court in his customary unconcerned manner. The defense motion for a new trial was denied.

Residents Seek Alley Widening

Residents are complaining about the alley that runs from Barrett to Acacia avenue, which is really a part of Seventh street, but is so narrow that it cannot be used for traffic.

Last evening petitions presented to the council stated the alley as it now exists served no purpose, but for children to use in going to the Peres school and asked that it be widened by the city acquiring the tier of lots on the west side.

On the motion of Councilman Scott, the matter was referred to the planning commission.

Turns Down Two Grand!

SPURNS $2,000 TIP!—When a virile Wyoming rancher sobbed over the singing of blue-eyed Alice Eldon (above), in night club in New York and peeled two $1,000 bills from his roll, she set Broadway tongues a-wagging by coolly turning down the giant "tip."

County Real Estate Men To Discuss Bay Barrier

The question of the Bay Barrier will come up for discussion at the District meeting of the Realtors, which is to be held in Vallejo, Friday night, according to notices sent out by C. A. Ricks, of Martinez, vicepresident of the California Real Estate Association.

Ricks stated that Assemblyman Van Bernard will be present and discuss the Bay Barrier, or dam, and its relation to the water resources of Central California. Van Bernard is a member of the California Legislative Committee on Water Problems as well as one of the Executive heads of the California Water Resources Association. A resolution will probably be presented to this meeting asking the Legislative Committee to include the building of the Bay Barrier in its report to the Legislature.

The District meeting is being held by the Realtors as a get-together of the people interested in the problems of real estate in Contra Costa, Yolo, Solano and Napa Counties. The meeting will be held at the Vallejo Y. M. C. A. and will be preceded by a 7 P. M. dinner, reservations of which are being received daily by Ricks and J. V. O'Hara, president of the Vallejo Real Estate Board.

All interested citizens have been invited to attend the meeting. The indications are that a large crowd of political and civic officials, as well as bankers, property owners and industrial heads will be present to join in the discussion of the big questions that are confronting the upper San Francisco Bay District.

SEWAGE NEEDS OF CITY TO BE MADE IN SURVEY

In order to cope with the storm water conditions, and the conditions in connection with the sanitary sewers of the city, the council last evening appointed John O. Miller as sanitary engineer at a salary of $250 per month, with an allowance of $25 per month.

SEWERS TAXED
On account of the rapid growth of the city, sanitary sewers are being taxed to their capacity, and storm water conditions are getting so bad in winter in some of the sections of the city, that something will have to be done to correct the troubles.

In order to cope with the conditions, and on the recommendations of City Engineer E. A. Hoffman, the appointment of Miller was made. The appointee is a graduate of Stanford University, and has a great deal of experience along the line of sanitary matters.

SURVEY TO BE MADE
Miller will make a thorough survey of the city and will come time in the future make a detailed report to the council, in which he will set forth what is necessary to be done about changing the sanitary sewers, and what will have to be done about the installation of a general storm sewer system for Richmond.

PROPERTY REZONED

The property of L. J. Cashmer, check in the Richmond Annex, was last evening rezoned by the council, on the recommendation of the city planning commission, so that the owner of the lot can erect a cabinet shop on it.

OUTSIDE INTEREST, JITNEYS URGED TO FURNISH SERVICE

In connection with the transportation problem of the eastern section of the city, three things were practically determined at the meeting of the council last evening:

First—The notification of the Key System that its bus line would cease to operate on San Pablo avenue on Monday, February 20th.

Second—That the council cannot subsidize a line, without setting a precedent that would practically bankrupt the treasury, as other sections would have the same right to ask for subsidized lines.

OUTSIDE ENTRY
Third—That the problem will have to be solved by the entry of some outside concern which will operate busses, or the council will issue jitney permits that will permit machines to operate on the same streets as the Key System.

There was an extended discussion of the transportation problem, which was brought up by Councilman A. L. Paulsen. He spoke of the negotiations that had been carried on with the officials of the Key System and also with the Southern Pacific, and asked that City Attorney T. M. Carlson make a statement for the benefit of those present, as he was thoroughly conversant with the question from its inception to the present time.

CARLSON'S STATEMENT
"Whether the eastern section of this city is to have transportation," said City Attorney Carlson, "is the statement of a problem, to which a great deal of time and thought has been given. After months of effort the council finds itself in the same position that it was when it started to wrestle with the question."

"Six months ago the Key System went before the railroad commission and asked for the abandonment of the Grand Canyon line, the Sixth street line and the Twenty-third street line. Prior to this it had promised to pay for the paving of the center of San Pablo avenue, and the council started proceedings for the improvement work. The Key System adhered to its original position concerning abandonment and finally the city got it to agree to pay $20,000 toward the paving of the avenue. In this compromise it insisted on the Grand Canyon abandonment but agreed to continue the Macdonald line to San Pablo, the Twenty-third street line and the Sixth street line. The effect and value of paint and proper window glass are subjects worthy of serious thought. Paint not only saves and preserves, but it makes the difference between shabbiness and prosperity, in appearance.

Some time ago we published a letter from a Mrs. L. M., telling how unappreciative her 37-year old son was of her house-keeping for him, and of her desire to find some place else to live. Since then letters have been coming into the office offering Mrs. L. M. homes and care and understanding. Two of them are printed here:

Dear Patricia Lee:

I read in this paper recently your answer to a letter received from Mrs. L. M. It seems that if this old lady would leave her home and son she would be much happier. Please send me her name and address. I would like to call on her and if she is the kind of an old lady I hope to find, I will give her a home and she need never worry any more. I cannot afford to give her a big salary, but neither would she have to work herself to death. All I require is a woman who can cook one meal a day and keep the kitchen clean. She would have to do that much for herself. I have been ill and want some one for company. Please ask Mrs. L. M. to write to me.

Another woman writes:

Dear Patricia Lee: If Mrs. L. M. really needs a good home, I would be only too glad to have her with me as

WISE CRACKS from the BIG TOWN by Walter Winchell

A STORY ABOUT A STORY

Behind the scenes of Lindbergh's epochal flight (to Paris) the two remarkable episodes of modern journalism, both interlinked, that have set the lordly tongues of the newspaper world swagging. One concerns the failure of the great Associated Press to flash immediately to the outside world the flyer's arrival at Le Bourget and the other that of the sensational scoop obtained over the New York Times by its rival on a sordid up exclusive story.

Allis in both instances have flown thick and fast ever since that eventful night of May 21, and just what did happen still remains much of a mystery. What is known is interesting, not only because the biggest news wire service was beaten on the biggest event in a generation, but because therein is a romantic tale of reportorial wit and enterprise that harkens back to the good old days of Park Row. It is a brief tale of how the simple human element triumphed over the highly organized machinery of a great industry.

Now Le Bourget flying field, some ten miles north of the heart of Paris, is a triangle perhaps a mile and a half around and facing west are grouped irregularly three administration buildings. Three telephone wires, one in each unit, on the night of May 21 were connected with the city, two of which were used by the Commercial Cable Company for the press.

All during the day, converging from all directions, thousands jammed the big aerodrome, two stout fences running parallel with the Buffet, or central administration structure, barring them from the field proper. Beyond the outer pale were at least 100 newspaper correspondents and many photographers. A dripping darkness shrouded the landscape, and into this toward the north they cast cautious eyes, undismayed by countless false and premature reports. Millions in the far corners of the earth depended on them, and the waited, grided for the expected event.

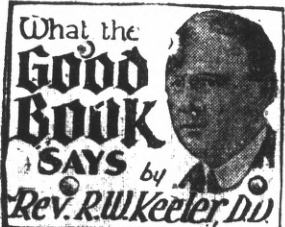

Now among these correspondents were five New York Times men and several assistants who had instructions from the home office to isolate Lindbergh at Le Bourget, whisk him to Paris and get the story, which had been contrived for in advance. Elaborate scoopproof preparations were made, a special motor car chartered and the interview already plotted. Well, the best-made plans of better men go astray, and how these went up in smoke is newspaper history today.

For some inexplicable reason all of the Fourth Estate had no idea of what was going to happen that night, at least all except one man. Misgivings were his, and so earlier in the day he prepared an urgent class cablegram to his paper and left it at the Commercial office in Paris. Marked as No. 1, it read: "Lindbergh arrived Le Bourget, the blank space indicating the omitted time, which was to be inserted and the cable released on later instructions."

That man was Wilbur Forrest, Paris correspondent of the New York Herald Tribune, who holds what is believed to be the enviable honor of beating the whole world on the flyer's arrival. Priding himself on his foresight, Mr. Forrest sauntered out to the aerodrome in the afternoon and took up a watchful post in the Buffet building at an upper window, overlooking the field. In the room was a Commercial Cable telephone operator standing by his carphones. With him the vigilant writer arranged to have the No. 1 cable released at Paris as soon as excitement outside indicated the flyer had arrived. Below were the Times men and others.

At 10:15 a small dark plane roared over the aerodrome, circled the field twice and then alighted perfectly at 10:22 opposite the Buffet building. Few were sure that it was Lindbergh's machine had been arriving all evening. Some of the correspondents ambled over. Yes, it was the American, all right. And then the stampede began. A mob of some 30,000 straining at the fences, broke over and bore down on the craft in flank movement. In the center of this maelstrom were the newspaper men, trapped, unable to get to the telephones.

From his window Forrest was watching and in a flash he sprang to the operator and told him to order the release of the cable, with the time 10:22 inserted. The great presses were ready and in no time flats were grinding out extras. In Times Square so quickly were they snatched up that astute newsmen were renting remnant of their bundles for a couple of minutes at fifty cents apiece.

THE JAZZ SINGER NOVELIZED BY ARLINE DE HAAS

Copyright 1927, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.

THE JAZZ SINGER, starring Al Jolson, is a Warner Bros. pictureization of this novel. It is based upon the play by Samson Raphaelson.

SYNOPSIS

Young Rabinowitz has trained his son, Jackie, to sing the Hebrew songs of the Synagogue. On the Eve of the Day of Atonement he finds Jackie singing ragtime in a "beer garden." He whips the child and Jackie runs away. Ten years elapse. Jackie, now Jack Robin, a jazz singer, down on his luck, meets Mary Dale, a dancer, who obtains a part for him in her vaudeville act. Back in the New York Ghetto his father still denounces him, but Jack corresponds with his mother who rightly judges that her son is in love. Then one day Mary hands Jack a telegram to read.

"New York—Miss Mary Dale—State-Lake Theatre, Chicago, Ill.," he read. "Would you consider leading role new musical show fast opening stop rehearsals begin two weeks stop wire answer. Harry Lee."

He turned to face a happily smiling girl who could scarcely keep her feet still.

"Gee, that's a great chance for you, Mary," he exclaimed, returning the wire. "But I always knew you'd get it."

"I know. Isn't it marvelous?" Mary was nervously searching for pocketbook and gloves and not quite conscious of whether she was looking for anything at all or not. "Just think! That's the opportunity I've been waiting for ever since I began to dance. And now it's here. O Jack, I can hardly believe it."

"How did it happen? Do you know?" Jack asked, still enthusiastic.

"Well, you see, I was sent to Lee several times from a casting agent."

"Well, that's something one can never forecast," Mary answered philosophically. "I once heard a famous actor say that if anyone could read the public's mind so far as shows were concerned all he'd have to do would be to sit down at a desk and say: 'Gentlemen, the line forms to the right.'"

"And that's the truth," Jack smiled. "But no matter what happens, Mary, you'll always know that I'll be wishing the best of luck and everything for you."

Impulsively, Jack caught Mary's hand in his, and the two stood gazing into each other's eyes, lost to the world about them.

"Mary," Jack pressed the girl's hands tenderly between his. "I want to tell you—I'll never forget that everything I am I owe to you. Everything I am—or ever will be."

"Thank you, Jack, for saying that," Mary drew her hands away slowly. "But I want you to remember this: I, nor anyone else, could ever make you what you are or will be. You have that within yourself. And you're going to come out on top, Jack. I know it. You have the ability, and you have the voice. You must carry on. If I can do anything to help you, I'll do it—you know that."

"You've already done so much for me, Mary," Jack answered, his voice trembling. "More than I can ever hope to thank you for. If it hadn't been for you—"

"I only gave you a chance, and you made good," Mary looked up at the singer with those smiling eyes in her eyes. "If you hadn't had it in you, you'd have dropped instead, you got over. So, after all, you're the one who's done the real work."

"Listen, Jack, it's so easy to create opportunities, but there are so few people who can do anything with them after they have them. And you've proved that you can. And that's more than enough thanks. So forget all about it. I've got to hurry now. It's four o'clock, and I want to get this wire right off. See you tonight!" She found her bag and gloves and the two stepped out into the hall way.

"All right, I have to collect. Buster," Jack walked as far as the key rack where Mary hung up her key to her dressing room. "Coming in early?"

"O, about seven thirty. Bye-bye," Mary hurried out the stage door. Jack wandered back to his dressing room and Buster with happiness and sorrow each fighting for supremacy in his heart.

CHAPTER IX

"Ready, Buster?" Jack thrust his head into the dressing room and found his companion adjusting his scarf before the mirror.

"Just a minute," Buster reached for a hat and turned out the lights. "Say, did you see that green tie of mine? Can't find it." He closed the door and turned the key in the lock.

"No. Maybe it's over at the hotel."

The two deposited their key in the rack and went out the stage door, turning into Michigan Avenue. They started across the street lined with tall, stately buildings, dodging the heavy traffic and at last reached the safety of the opposite curb.

School nurse says all girls should know this

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping. Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. The opening number was a song by the children of the fifth and sixth grades, which was followed by a poem on Lincoln and a play woven about his life of Abraham Lincoln. A story was read by the children of the third and fourth grades depicting the life of Lincoln as he grew older. This was followed by the singing of a song by the same group of children.

A Founders' day reading was given by Mrs. L. E. Jones. The program was concluded with the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner" by all present.

After school was dismissed a business session was held with Mrs. C. H. Bradshaw, president in charge. Mrs. Julius Geritz, former secretary of the organization handed in her resignation as the Geritz family has moved to Kensington Park. Mrs. L. E. Jones was elected to fill the vacancy. The members will meet for an all-day meeting at the school Tuesday afternoon, February 21 and they have been requested to contribute a covered dish for the luncheon which will be served.

Dolores in the star part of Maryland Calvert, Helen as Ginny, discarded lover of the villainous Captain Thorpe, who plays such a disastrous role in the life of the heroine. Edward Bacon directed "The Heart of Maryland," which comes to the California Theatre today for a run of two days. Included in the cast are Walter Connolly, who plays the part of General U. S. Grant, James Welch as General Robert E. Lee and Charles Edwards as Abraham Lincoln. "The Heart of Maryland" is the play which brought such tremendous and deserved fame to Mrs. Leslie Carter, almost thirty years ago. It is one of those authentic melodramas which never lose vitality. 1927 thrills and weeps over it, quite as copiously as did 1858.

Bloody Clothes Fail To Give Police Clues

Bloody clothes found in a box car in the Santa Fe yards a week ago, are still a mystery to the Richmond police. The clothes were found wrapped in a package inside a car of paper shipped from San Jose.

Chief of Police Dan Cox announced the receipt of a letter from George Lyle, sheriff of Santa Clara county in which he stated that every clue is being checked to determine the source of the clothes.

In the package were two shirts, underwear and a pair of carpenter overalls. When found the blood stains on the clothing were hardly dry.

"SALLY IN OUR ALLEY" FILM AT RICHMOND

Luxurious mansion settings vie with tenement backgrounds as the locale for the main action of "Sally in Our Alley," Columbia Pictures screen romance, which is scheduled for showing at the Richmond Theatre today and tomorrow. The heroine is raised in a tenement "alley" and makes her home with three foster-fathers. Then she is transferred to a wealthy aunt's home, and to new situations that form a sharp contrast to her earlier environment. The sets provided by Columbia for this production are said to present a vividly realistic replica of tenement districts as well as the authentic atmosphere of "high society."

Shirley Mason, who has achieved considerable success in the portrayal of "waif" roles, is starred as "Sally." Richard Arlen, courtesy Paramount Famous Lasky, has the male lead as the heroine's plumber sweetheart, Walter Lang directed.

Other film features on the same program include "Jane Missed Out," a roaring comedy, and current news events.

Never again say—

Is that all you paid for this . . . ?

Where did you ever find these . . . ?

Why, it costs me nearly twice that much!

Do tell me where you get them for that!

How do you ever manage so well on so little?

But, aren't they awfully expensive?

I wish I could do it.

ITALIAN SHIP DOCKED HERE FOR OIL CARGO

Interest at the Parr Terminals was centered around the Italian motorship Cellina, 10,000-ton freighter, when the ship landed here to take on a cargo of petroleum products. The ship was built the latter part of 1926 as one included in the Merchant Marine ship-building program of the Italian government.

It is 408 feet in length and 54 feet beam. This is the third trip to the West Coast, but the first time it has stopped at this port. One huge motor propels the ship at a speed of 30 knots an hour. She carries a crew of 55 men and has accommodations for 39 passengers.

An unusual feature is the life rafts that are used in place of the life boats common to other ocean going vessels. There are a few life boats, however, but the rafts take the place.

Forty ships comprise the fleet of the Liberty Navigation company of Trieste, Italy, of which this ship is a part.

ADM. PHILLIPS DENIES SLIGHT TO LINDBERGH

(By Universal Service)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—Denying reports that he had belittled the aviation achievements of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, Rear Admiral Philip Andrews, of the Boston Navy Yard, paid high tribute to the World Flyer in a letter to Rep. Dougherty (D) of Massachusetts, read in the House today.

His letter was in reply to charges of Rep. McIntire (D) of California, that the Admiral had attributed Lindbergh's success chiefly to luck. To McIntire's question of whether Admiral Andrews was a "little aviation fan" and whether he had been prompted to speak disparagingly of Lindbergh by Secretary of the Navy William D. Clegg, the Admiral said he had not discussed the Colonel's flight with Clegg.

"I might say that Lindbergh has done more for international good will than any 40 diplomats that could be imagined, and also have felt somewhat fearful, in his making so many trips, of something happening to him," wrote Andrews.

Should anything happen to Col. Lindbergh it would be "nothing short of a national calamity," wrote Admiral Andrews. Col. Lindbergh was described by him as being the greatest aviator in the world.

Reports of his speech made in Boston were incomplete and did not fully state the Admiral's observations on aviation, he said. He discussed hazard faced by aviators, such as adverse weather conditions, but did not intimate that Lindbergh's success was "95 per cent luck."

Instead of being an "anti" aviation, Andrews said that he is a friend of aviation, pointing out that a non-injury, Lieutenant C. C. Champion, held records for achievement in aviation.

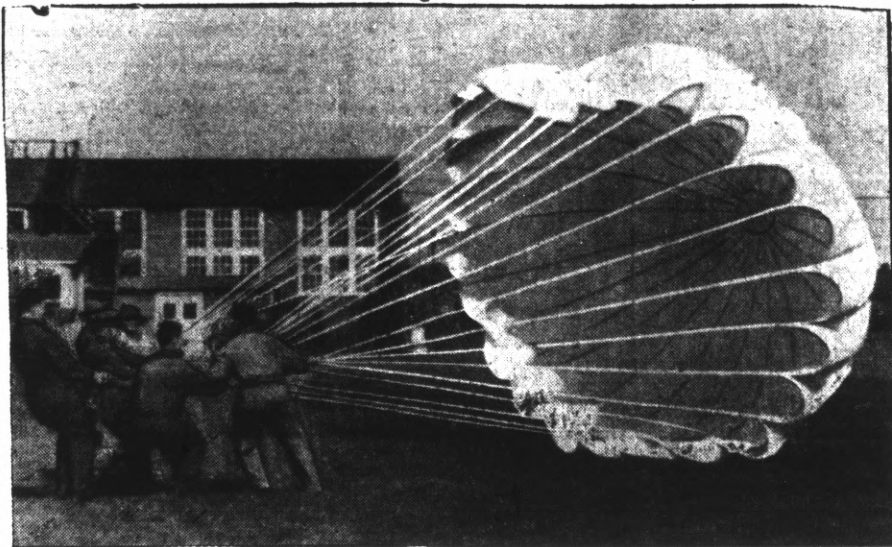

Contra Costa Bar To Be Continued

MARTINEZ, Feb. 14.—Contra Costa county attorneys, members of the county bar association, practically by unanimous vote today decided to perpetuate the Contra Costa County Bar Association to function in conjunction with the Administrative Body for this county of the State Bar Association recently organized.

J. E. Rodgers, president of both organizations, asked to be relieved of his duties as executive officer of the Contra Costa County Bar Association, as did T. H. DeLap, both to continue as president and secretary respectively of the county association.

A Washington's birthday dance will be given by the members of the Carquinez Golf club in the clubhouse Tuesday evening, February 21. Reservations for the dinner dance close at 6 o'clock on February 20. The affair will be informal.

Devices For Riding Comfort Interest Visitors At Shows

Reports from national and local automobile shows throughout the country indicate a widespread interest in devices recently developed by car manufacturers as aids to riding comfort.

The use of rubber for this purpose in cars of the medium and lower price classes is especially a subject of repeated inquiry by visitors to the shows, says Harry Curry, Richmond dealer, and the ingenious methods by which this pliable substance is adapted for deadening vibration, absorbing road shocks and eliminating noises due to contact of metal with metal rarely fail to elicit interested inquiry.

Chrysler representatives at the shows report an exceptionally large number of such inquiries, due, it is believed to the leading part played by Chrysler engineers in the search for new uses for rubber in chassis construction.

First developed for the Imperial "80" and until the last few months found only in cars of the highest luxury type, rubber spring mountings have been passed along by the operation of Chrysler's Standardized Quality principle to other Chrysler models, the "72" and "62". Their remarkable enhancement of riding ease was thus made available for the first time in the moderate priced automobile field. Metal shackles are entirely dispensed with, spring ends being anchored in blocks of live rubber.

In addition to this use in spring suspension, rubber is effectively applied by Chrysler engineers in other ways to insure quiet, long-lived operation and a high degree of passenger comfort. Among the uses of rubber recently devised by them is its application to cushion engine mountings, also a development primarily for Imperial "80" cars, and transmitted from them to the other Chrysler models. Here, also, direct metal-to-metal contact is obviated, sound vibrations are kept from passing through the frame into the body of the car, and much improved riding ease is achieved.

To assure the maintenance of the high quality demanded by Chrysler standards, a specially constructed and highly ingenious machine has been added to the company's laboratory equipment, by which all shipments of rubber received are subjected to one of the many rigorous tests imposed on all material in Chrysler production. With this machine, its tensile strength is definitely determined. Rubber intended for use in Chrysler cars must stretch at least 620 per cent before it will break, and at the moment of snapping it must show a strength of at least 3,500 pounds per square inch—a resistance far in excess of any strain that would ever be put on it in actual driving.

One of the most important tests made in the Chrysler laboratory is the "cold flow" test of the ability of rubber to withstand different pressures and temperatures. In twenty-four hours a test is run which approximates two years of service, the results being measured in the dimensional change in shape after pressure has been applied at a given temperature.

DAVIS URGES LINDY ABANDON RISKY FLIGHTS

(By Universal Service)

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 14.—Col. Lindbergh will be urged to abandon the extremely dangerous flights he has been making lately by Secretary of War, Dwight D. Davis, the latter announced today before departure for St. Louis.

"Lindbergh has performed feats of vast consequence to our nation," Secretary Davis declared. "He has cemented relations with foreign countries by instances of rare diplomacy. By his task is finished. There is no need for him to further expose himself to the dangers that manifestly lurk in his path."

"I would not presume to have him eliminate his flying entirely. But the day that Lindbergh must fly over trackless jungles, over He must not expose himself further to that type of flying. I am going to try and impress upon him the need of eliminating these long flights."

TWO MEN were discussing the subject of saving. "One said he didn't save because he had no incentive for it." The other said that he, too, had followed the same course until one day, without any definite plan in mind, he determined to put aside one-tenth of his salary regularly in an American Trust Company savings account. "Today he is moderately rich, because with the few thousand dollars he accumulated he was enabled to take advantage of an exceptional business opportunity. American Trust Company savings accounts pay four per cent interest, compounded semi-annually."

Books Richmond Boys Are Selecting From Library

In the Boys' and Girls' Library, a department of the Richmond Public Library, boys and girls are everyday discovering new and worthwhile things in books, according to Miss Florence Gould, Children's Librarian.

One boy finds that David Putnam, a real boy of fourteen, just about his own age, has written another book about the voyages which he takes during his summer vacations. This one took him to Baffin Land—and his new friend, Deric Nussbaum went along with him. Deric is only a year older than David and he also has written a book or two.

"Those two boys sure can write keen books," said a Richmond boy yesterday in talking to Miss Gould. "It must be great to go on voyages like that. And even the pictures are good in David Putnam's last book."

Did you notice them? And they are drawn by a boy too, a friend of David's.

David's father was in San Francisco last week and he says that David is plugging away at school just now and will have to go to school all summer to make up for time lost on that Baffin Land trip last summer, which took more time than the school vacation allowed. When asked what David planned to do "when he grows up," Mr. Putnam said, "Well, David says he is not going to be an author." David must think that it's more fun to travel than to write about it afterwards.

Deric Nussbaum's father is superintendent of the Mesa Verde National Park in Colorado, so Deric writes about things that are everyday home things to him.

The books that David has written are: "David Goes Voyaging,"

"David Goes to Greenland,"
"David Goes to Baffin Land,"
And Deric has written:
"Deric in Mesa Verde,"
"Deric with the Indians."

TELL-TALE ARTERIES

Are your arteries showing a tendency towards becoming hard? Do you have any difficulty in breathing, heart palpitation or dizzy spells? Look out for high blood pressure! It's a dangerous condition that may cut life short.

Living at the pace we do today we put too great a strain upon our vital organs, especially the liver. The liver becoming "limp" or sluggish, fails to cleanse the blood of the poisons formed in food waste. Then a toxic condition of the whole system, with heart and blood vessels affected.

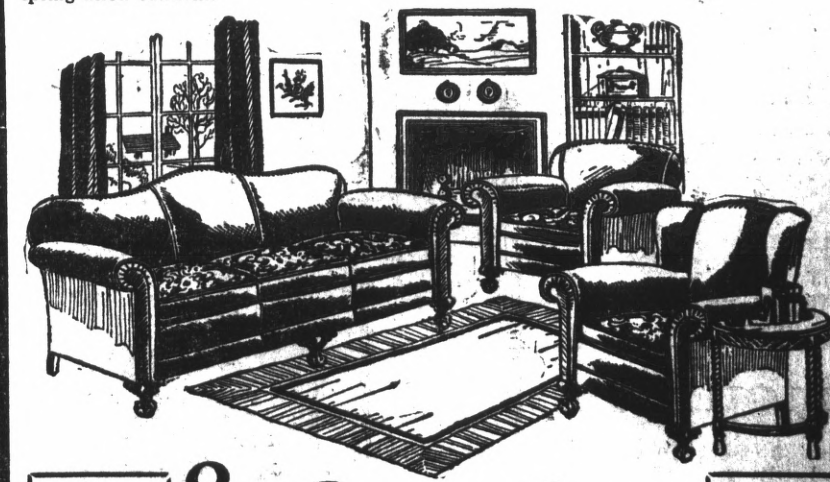

The liver occasionally needs a little help and there's nothing better for this, as doctors agree, than ox gall. Ox gall is a remarkable natural stimulant for the human liver, promoting its normal active functioning so essential to real health. Dioxol tablets are genuine ox gall in dainty and tasteless form, each tablet representing 10 drops of pure ox gall. To be sure of getting the genuine ox gall, be sure of getting Dioxol. They cost less than 2c each at good druggists, and a few make a wonderful difference.

MAJOR LEAGUE TO BACK JR. BALL TOURNEY

By FRED VAN DEVENDER
CHICAGO, Feb. 14.—Sandlot baseball, the hope of the big leagues came into its own today.

Presidents John Heydler of the National League, E. S. Barnard of the American League, and Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, Commissioner of baseball, sanctioned the National Junior Baseball Tournament, heretofore sponsored solely by the American League.

The two major leagues will back the tournament to the extent of $50,000 it was announced. The action of the two leagues was the most important heard of, but it was pointed out by the officials that they have been looking for something of the kind for many years.

The tournament, which will comprise teams from every state in the Union, composed of all boys under 17.

There will be state district tournaments, state tournaments, sectional tournaments, divisional tournaments and finally the national tournament, where the amateur champion team of the United States will be selected.

The national tournament will be known as the Little World's Series and will be that in fact. The final tournament must be held prior to September 19, it was announced. The players of the winning team will be the guests of the Major Leagues at the World's Series.

Under the plan, there will be six regions in the East and four in the West.

The Western regions will be composed by states as follows:

No. 1.—Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Montana.

No. 2.—California, Nevada, Utah and Arizona.

No. 3.—North Dakota, South Dakota, Wyoming and Nebraska.

No. 4.—Colorado, Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas and New Mexico.

The Eastern districts would be:

No. 5.—Minnesota, Iowa, Wisconsin and Michigan.

No. 6.—Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Kentucky.

No. 7.—Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama and Tennessee.

No. 8.—Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island and New York.

No. 9.—New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, and the District of Columbia.

No. 10.—North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Florida.

After the state champions are selected, they will play in their respective groups until a regional champion is selected.

The regional champions will then play to select the winners of the East and West, and the two divisional champions will play the Little World's Series.

The Major Leagues will garner from the tournament an idea of players that may eventually be the idols of baseball loving America.

The Majors have realized the necessity for such a plan as that announced today, but never before has a comprehensive scheme been presented.

Each of the tournaments will be sponsored by the American League organizations in the respective community and by the National League in the final tournament.

Thus the boys will be given a chance, the League will be boosted, and the Majors will profit to the extent of new and worthy players.

The Passing Of Bold Mike

Freddie Lindstrom's spinal ailment at height of its trouble.

Youngster had to wince every time he stooped over for dizzy ones that came to third base.

All of a sudden Joe Harris coked a terrific grasscutter drive down the third base foul line.

Just bounded inside line, then headed foul.

THAT'S slow motion description, for it all happened in a fraction of a second.

Lindstrom, with no thought of his back, made a dive and pounced on the ball. Landed flush on his spine with a thud, got right up and threw to Terry.

CROWD gave him big hand and he rated it. Got his man at first and prevented sure two-bagger.

THAT was dead game stunt. A fellow less courageous would have hesitated making such a daring leap, but Lindy's gameness was just natural. He didn't have TIME to think of his spine, but moved in instinct.

SOME one else's first thought would have been of his spine, but Lindstrom's first thought was the ball.

FEW days later Lindy was shifted to left field and Reese took his place.

HANDY ANDY was game too, and proved it in very same spot where Fred made that dive.

ON TRICK sort of play, a ball thrown from the outfield hit a pebble and struck Andy smack on the temple.

MISSISSIPPI kid went down like the Titanic. Players rushed to him and finally Hornsby sent Herb Thomas, sub, out. Andy came to just as he saw sub and his first move, also instinctive, just like Lindstrom's, was to make a wild swing and sweep every one aside.

MAD as hornet about sub. "Get the hell out of here!" he yelled.

AND he went on with the game. McGraw tickled to death. Told us afterward that it was exhibition of natural fighting mood they used to show in old days.

IN CASE YOU haven't heard: Bill Terry and Freddie Lindstrom are rarely out of each other's sight.

AND Babe Herman and Gink Hendrick, the two best hitters of the Dodgers last year, are slated to sit on the bench this season, according to early plans. No place for them.

Publicity Given Local Builders In East Bay Organ

In the current issue of The East Bay Builder, official organ of the organization, the Builders-Exchange of Contra Costa County, Inc., is given much publicity in two articles.

The first, by Leonard C. Dexter, executive secretary of the local organization, traces the history of the Richmond body from the time of its founding in a rear store-room of the Pioneer Electric company in the spring of 1921 to the present stage which is known throughout the state as "The Model Exchange."

The second article is by P. M. Sanford, the first president of the Builders-Exchange here and now state president of the builders, telling of the benefits he has derived from his membership.

A column of news from the local Exchange is also given prominently.

Tobacco Magnate Gives Success Rules

LONDON, FEB. 14.—Bernard Baron's "whole secret of success" lies in the simple formula of being "human to your staff of employees." The famous tobacco magnate and philanthropist gave this bit of advice recently when he was questioned by the London newspaper on plans for a wide distribution of gifts to the employees of his tobacco firm at the coming Christmas season.

He explained:

"If only employers realized that their benefits, indeed their whole life, depended on their employees, they would take greater care of workers."

The whole secret of success is to realize that the people you are employing are children and that you are their father. When I walk among my workmen I feel a father to them. More than that, I feel a king. And why? Because they know I have their interests at heart and because they trust me."

EL PASO, Tex., Feb. 14.—Apparently the father of William Edward Hickman was not surprised when informed here today of the sentence of death passed on his son, at Los Angeles.

"Just what I expected," he said, stopping for a moment in his operation of a coal crane. "I guess I won't send him any message. There is nothing I can do for him."

"But they are not going to take his brain out and cut up his body. His mother won't stand for that, either. He's going to have a nice, respectable funeral."

"FOX" CALM AS SENTENCE TO HANG IS READ

trial was denied by Judge Trabucco. A motion for an arrest of judgment, and an attack on the court's jurisdiction to give sentence, likewise were turned down.

TWO WITNESSES

For the purpose of establishing the crime and the degree of guilt, two state witnesses were called upon for brief testimony. County Autopsy Surgeon A. F. Wagner testified concerning the condition of the body of the Parker girl, Chief of detectives Herman Cline told of the capture and confessions of the kidnaper and killer.

Judge Trabucco, holding three hand-written sheets of paper containing the sentence, ordered Hickman to stand up.

Hickman stood before the bar in the attitude of a soldier at attention.

READS SENTENCE

Judge Trabucco read the double sentence.

Referring to the murder charge, he said:

"The court, after due deliberation, determines and finds the degree of the crime in count two of the indictment is murder of the first degree, without extenuating or mitigating circumstances."

"For the crime of murder, the offense described in count two of the indictment, you shall suffer the penalty of death."

The execution was set for Friday, April 27, at San Quentin. Jerome Walsh, chief defense attorney, served notice of appeal. Hickman was taken back to the county jail.

"MADE GOOD SHOWING"

The defendant wanted it understood that he had made a good showing as far as nerve was concerned. He extended his hand, to show that it did not tremble, and desired it be known that he "had taken it like a man."

TO ATTACK LAW

Hickman's counsel are expected to appeal to the state supreme court within a few days. This appeal will include an attack on the constitutionality of the state's new insanity law under which Hickman was tried.

With a sentence of life imprisonment and death already hanging over him, Hickman faces a new murder trial. He and Welby Hunt, 16, are accused of murdering C. Ivy Toms, druggist, in a hold-up on Christmas eve, 1925. This case is to be called tomorrow.

CASE TO BE DELAYED

The district attorney's office today agreed to a continuance until Monday upon the proviso that the defense will do everything possible to speed up the trial. The matter of the continuance will be acted upon by Judge Carlos Hardy tomorrow.

Hickman has entered pleas of "not guilty" and "not guilty by reason of insanity." His defense will follow insanity lines similar to those of the Parker trial.

Hickman, according to his counsel, will not take the stand against his co-defendant, who, as a state witness in the Parker trial, expressed the belief that Hickman was sane.

Hunt, who, it was reported yesterday, would plead guilty in the hope of leniency, will stand by his plea of not guilty, his counsel said today. It will be contended that Hunt was dominated by Hickman.

4000 COPIES of Feng Wan's new book on Herbs Ready for Distribution

Never before has a Chinese Herbalist written a book in English. The revised edition of "Feng Wan's Lore," just off the press, contains numerous articles on Chinese Herbal Remedies, Theories and Methods of Treating Various Ailments, all written by Feng Wan himself. The contents of this book are very different from those of books composed by advertising agencies or by employed authors. The herbalists who publish such books are not even able to read what the books contain.

Feng Wan's book is designed to set forth clearly the nature and preparation of herbs, and to show how these wonderful gifts of Mother Nature are used, in accordance with the ancient Chinese Theories, to combat disease in its various forms. The book also contains approximately 200 testimonials, given chiefly by East Bay people who have been freed from suffering by drinking the Feng Wan Herbs.

One copy may be obtained free by each family if called for at the Feng Wan Office, or a copy will be mailed to any address upon request and receipt of 10 cents in stamps.

Feng Wan Herb Co. 576 Tenth St., Oakland, Cal.

Chicken Thief Returned From Prison To Get Crime Record

MARTINEZ, Feb. 14. — Edward Bustamente, 31, Ashland, and Antonio Marias, 34, San Leandro, convicted burglars, are in Fresno penitentiary today, the former to start serving a life sentence he was unaware of facing him, after having been taken to the prison twice following sentence here by Superior Judge A. B. McKenzie for burglarizing the Frank Rutherford warehouse at San Ramon.

The two prisoners were delivered to the penitentiary Saturday afternoon by Deputy Sheriff R. L. McNamara and J. S. Nelson, but the warden informed the officers on their arrival that he had received telephone instructions from Deputy District Attorney James F. Hoey to return the man to Martinez so that the statement the law demands district attorneys shall taken from convicted men should be secured. The warden declared that it was the first time in ten years that prisoners had been turned back from the gates of the institution.

The officers were armed with their prison delivery warrant, but were unaware that the prisoners' statements had not been secured.

Bustamente, a three time loser and subject to the terms of the habitual criminal act, did not know until his return from the prison that he was facing a life sentence. Fellow prisoners in the county jail then informed him of his fate.

Bustamente and Marias, the latter twice convicted of felony charges, and Richard Ortiz, 21, San Leandro, admitted burglarizing the Rutherford warehouse. Ortiz has asked for probation and is awaiting hearing on February 26.

Statements of the two men were secured yesterday morning and in company with a third felon, J. W. Adams, 49, Stockton, convicted of stealing chickens, they were taken to the penitentiary a second time.

DRYS EMERGE VICTORIOUS IN HOUSE BATTLE

(By Universal Service)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 14. — Dry emerged victorious today in the house during sharp assaults upon the treasury department appropriation bill.

The attack of the wets centered upon efforts to stop the government from requiring industrial alcohol permit holders to "poison" the product so as to make it unfit for beverage use.

Such an amendment, offered by Representative Lanthicum (D) of Maryland went down to defeat 167 to 39. It was the first vote on prohibition issue taken in the house this session. The fight for the amendment was led by New York and Maryland Democrats, with a sprinkling of republicans from Wisconsin and various wet centers lending their support.

"We want to stop the government from committing capital punishment and from murdering innocent persons," declared Representative Sirovich (D) of New York during the debate.

Representative Madden (R) of Illinois, replying to the wets, charged the amendment was an attempt to hamstring prohibition enforcement. He defended the use of so-called "poisons" as necessary to prevent industrial alcohol from bootleg channels.

Representative Laguardia (R) of New York then offered an amendment to the bill which would increase the $12,729,140 provided for prohibition enforcement for 1929 to $25,000,000. This was defeated 182 to 11.

Another motion by Laguardia to boost the enforcement sum to $75,000,000 was shouted down.

Representative Palmisano, (D) of Maryland put in an amendment to prevent payment of salaries to ex-convicts in the prohibition service and to others in the service who have two or more indictments pending against them. This was beaten 158 to 41.
